Victory Seen for Pinchot on 'Tribute'

Continued from Page One. ing practice will continue as in the past. Senator Pepper and Major Reed hold the key to the situation.

Their wishes and decision will dominate the conference.

Secretary Woodward and Judge Gawthrop, without derogation of their agreeable personalities or official position, will concur in the action of Messrs. Pepper and Reed.

As for Chairman Baker and Mrs. Warburton, they are the executors, as it were, the residuary legatees, of today's decision by the conference.

Money is needed for the campaign. It is more or less an absolute necessity.

Democratic leaders over the State, their organs and candidates, have been howling to heaven about the money spent by the Republicans in their primary campaign.

It has been the only issue upon which they could lay the hands of recurrent defeat.

Money is unnecessary in a Democratic campaign.

Its leaders, as has been notoriously the case in Philadelphia for a quarter of a century, have sold out the organization and collected and pocketed the coin before the campaign opened.

Nobody has interest enough to inquire as to who is paying McSparran's expenses.

In demanding that the hereditary practice of "soaking" the jobholder for campaign expenses be discontinued, Mr. Pinchot is living up to his preliminary declarations.

As an honorable candidate, he cannot recede from the position he has taken.

If Messrs. Pepper and Reed finally decide that political assessments are in order, then Chairman Baker and his assistant, Mrs. Warburton, must so conduct the campaign.

It would, however, be a campaign conducted exclusively in the interests of Senator Pepper and Major Reed.

The head of the ticket, the candidate for Governor, would, of necessity, and by choice, be eliminated from consideration.

And what would Gifford Pinchot, regularly nominated candidate for Governor, do under the circumstances?

Just what every other honorable gentleman would do who desires to keep faith with the people.

He would conduct his own campaign with his own State Committee.

And Mr. Pinchot is prepared to do that thing if worst comes to worst.

The indications are, however, that sober second thought will prevail.

That the Democrats will not be permitted to batten and fatten upon the foolish errors and idiotic mistakes of Republican leaders and candidates.

Whatever the outcome it will afford mighty little satisfaction and no increased hope of victory, to the Democratic Party.

"It was unfortunate that Phipps should have been so weak as to yield to temptation," Mr. Schively said. "I feel sorry for the youth, his wife and his parents. Both families are as respectable and clean living as can be found. The case is now in the hands of the Federal authorities. Personally I should like to do everything in my power to give the lad a new start in life, as I don't believe him possessed of criminal instincts. He has a long future to face and it is pitiable that his name should be stained so early in life."

A Federal warrant has not yet been issued for the youth, but arrangements have been made to give him a hearing at the Federal Building before Commissioner Manley, and it is expected the warrant will be issued some time today.

It was learned that $3710 in cash had been recovered. The youth would not tell where he had it, but turned the money over to the bank authorities. Another $600 will be recovered later—the money which it is said he deposited as first payment on his home. The remaining $373 has not been accounted for.

ITALY'S KING IN DENMARK

Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena Visit Danish Monarch. Copenhagen, June 21.—(By A. P.)—King Victor Emmanuel of Italy and Queen Helena arrived in Copenhagen this morning for a three-day state visit to King Christian. The Italian monarch was greeted by King Christian and Queen Helena affectionately. King Christian and Queen Helena affectionately greeted the Italian monarch. King Christian and Queen Helena affectionately greeted the Italian monarch.

Early this morning an airplane brought a message for King Victor Emmanuel from the Italian Ambassador at London. It is believed the message concerns the Mediterranean conference to be held at London immediately after the royal visit here.

A state banquet and numerous other social functions have been planned.

CARRIED BURGLAR'S OFFIT

Four Arrested at Braddock Had Dynamite and Nitroglycerin. Pittsburgh, June 21.—(By A. P.)—Two men and two women, who registered as residents of Chicago, were arrested by the Braddock police today at the Coneland Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Fred Seim, chief of the Braddock police, said his attention was attracted to them by the large amount of baggage they carried. When this baggage was opened at the police station Chief Seim declared it was found to contain nitroglycerin, dynamite and an outfit of "safe-cracker's" tools.

The prisoners registered as Mr. and Mrs. Joe Leonard and Mr. and Mrs. James Shome.

PARADE TO SWAY JUDGES

Moscow Thousands Stage Demonstration Against Revolutionaries. Moscow, June 21.—(By A. P.)—A huge demonstration against the social revolutionaries on trial here was made today as part of the observance of the anniversary of the assassination in Petrograd in 1918 of M. Volodarsky, Bolshevik commissioner.

The judges at the trial saw thousands of paraders, the purpose of whose demonstration was to demand that the heaviest penalty be inflicted on the revolutionaries.

"Meant to Kill Me," Says Divorcee

Continued from Page One. Detrick later Herbert also went. I suppose he went directly to the store where Detrick was waiting for him."

Miss Roth said that some weeks ago Detrick became engaged at Miss Margaret Broderick, bookkeeper in the furniture store, because the girl refused to get some cash for him from the safe.

"He picked up a sharp paper knife and chased Miss Broderick around several desks," said Miss Roth. "Mr. Squibb took the knife away from him."

Miss Roth said Detrick also was jealous of the other man because Squibb had been promoted from truck driver to assistant manager and virtually given charge of the store by the owner, who is ill.

As for the two notes found after the tragedy, one presumably signed by Squibb, Miss Roth said she is familiar with the handwriting of both men and was certain Detrick had written both.

One of the letters was signed with Squibb's name. It follows:

"To whom it may concern:

"I, Elmer Detrick, 1105 Parker street and Herbert K. Squibb, 335 Kerlin street, have both this day been shot and killed by Peggy Roth. Miss Roth had me write this statement. She has been the whole cause of everything. If it was not for her this would never have happened. For God's sake put her away some place where she can never see daylight again."

Detrick wrote Mother

The other letter written by Detrick to his mother follows:

"Dear Mother—Forgive me and Herbert, as we have been good friends for four long years. He has done everything and said everything he could, but this is the last of it all. Miss Roth is the whole cause of it and her people. I am sure that we are both happy for I know that he knew what she was. Mother, below is a list of bills I owe. If you have any money pay them, and don't worry please. I still owe Herbert $0, so give it to his mother. Have Miss Roth put away, for she said if some one did not kill us, she would. Love to all and God bless you."

"ELMER."

"I can't understand why Detrick put the blame on me," Miss Roth responded. "I know he hated me because of my friendship for Mr. Squibb."

Miss Broderick admitted that Detrick had threatened her life, but she denied that Squibb was present and had taken the paper-knife away from the other man.

Miss Broderick showed sympathy for the slayer and said he was nervous and irritable because of heart disease.

"Three weeks ago Mr. Detrick and I were alone in the office," she went on. "He asked me to get $20 from the safe. I refused, telling him I was responsible for the money."

"Mr. Detrick then picked up a sharp bladed paper-knife and held it against my heart. He told me he would take my heart out if I didn't give him the money. I told him to go ahead and take the money, but to spare my life. Miss Broderick said she did not see Detrick return the money the following day, she said.

In outlining a theory she holds that Detrick was the victim and not the murderer, Miss Broderick said she was in the hospital when he died. "A few minutes before he died," she said, "he rolled his eyes and murmured, 'Oh, Herbert, why did you shoot me, Herbert?'"

Chief of Detectives McNeal scoffed at that theory. He said an investigation showed conclusively that Detrick fired the shots.

The reports of the shots were heard by Joseph Burns, 110 Flower street, and Paul Fromall, 426 Penn street, who were on the second floor of the building whose first floor is occupied by the Wax store.

Burns and Fromall ran downstairs and said they found the two men near the elevator shaft. They said Detrick's clothing was burning and that a revolver lay at his side.

These circumstances and the fact physicians say Detrick drank wood alcohol shortly before the tragedy, are pointed out by Chief McNeal as convincing evidence that Detrick was the aggressor.

Chief McNeal has known Miss Roth and her family for eight years. He said the young woman has a good reputation. She was married two years ago to a Philadelphian, he said, but left her husband because he would not support her.

Squibb lived with his eighty-year-old mother and a brother.
